Pacific/Panther Football

"The 2018 Panther Football season saw a twist to the team's make up with the addition of some Pirates from Pacific High School. Gold Beach and Pacific High Schools co-opted for the first time. While a 1-7 record was not what the team was after it was a great experience for Colton Morrill-Keeler, Davyn Brown, Kross Miller, and brothers, Steven and Sean White. The players from the two schools created a great team chemistry that was great to be around and very positive to work with as coaches." - Coach Swift

Coaches Krista Nieraeth & Heather Valinetine

"This year was definitely a learning year for us. After not having a team last year, we had a long ways to go. But I was proud of the six who stuck it out. Every day they showed up, listened, worked hard, and because of their efforts, improved tremendously. They were all thrown into the fire at some point and had to learn the hard way. However, the heart of the girls showed when they picked themselves up and kept moving forward. We talked a lot about being confident and showing it, even when you don't believe it. I am proud of the girls and their efforts. I look forward to the years to come for Pacific Volleyball," says Coach Krista Nieraeth.

Natalie Vincent "I love my freshies"

Coach Lemerand says "I thought the team played hard over all. We changed our style to more aggressive, and for the most part I think the girls took it well offensively and defensively. We won the South Division this year, and it was a big accomplishment for us. We had a lot of girls come back, but we also had 5 new freshman added to the team, and they took it very well. A majority of our team will be back next year. Looking forward to the next years."

Boys Attitude Basketball & Effort

"This year was a time to grow and adjust from certain unexpected events.

It brought us emotion and closer as a team. It forced some of our players to step up and we ended with a 11 win season."

Pacific FBLA

Pacific FBLA has seen a year of growth not just in size but in competition levels. With a group of 17 kids, we went from not sure about what to do to taking 1 and 2 spots in major awards. In a year of FBLA the competitors go to three branches where we get awards. First, being regionals which this year was a cold and snow filled journey to Roseburg. Out of our 17 competitors 15 made it through and moved in to the competition at state level, along with two wild cards. From there competitors have the national level. In the past Layne Converse and Colton Morrill-Keeler have made it to national level, and as of now Pacific FBLA has two for sure going to Nationals for the 2018-2019 school year.

Gearing Up

MEET THE ROBOT

A Year of Growth

Our robotics season was a completely different experience this year for several reasons. First of all, we were dipping our feet into league play instead of relying on qualifying competitions. Secondly, we used the engineer and design process the right way due to this change. Last but not least, we only had one team this year which led us to develop our robot more.

Every year I have been in robotics (4 years prior) we have gotten stuck in the same situation. When the launch video for our competition came out, we took our time. Usually, we would over-engineer our robot realize our mistake, and after Christmas break, we would start rushing to put something together. A mixture of long after school builds and not sleeping the night before the competition, we would end up competing with no practice at all. As you would expect, we didn't usually move on.

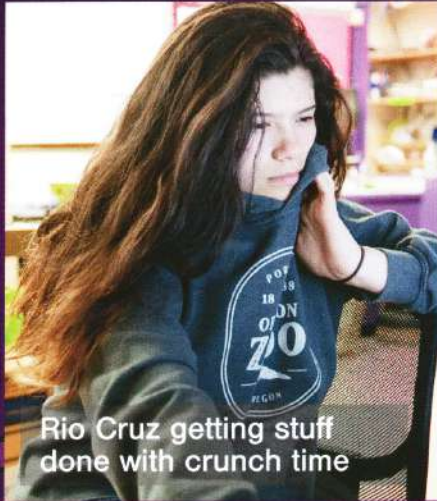

In league play it's more like a sports league, where you compete in multiple competitions spread out over the season. Not only did it give us chances to test our robot and get help from other teams, but it made us get our rear in gear. We actually had a fully functional robot in early November (that was still over-engineered) that competed well.

This early robot model lead us to see and correct the mistakes we had made. Not to mention that everyone this year had over an hour of practice driving.

As to why we didn't move on to super-qualifiers this year, I don't think anyone is to blame. Almost every student was involved in the design, outreach, or programming of our robot. Even with three seasoned warriors, first-year students were contributing. It appeared to me at least during the first competition that we had secured our season's success. At the end of the day, we didn't meet our fullest potential in our last competition due to disorganization and multiple team-members not being able to go. Nevertheless, we figured out the path that team 8881 will be following and set the students up to succeed in years to come.

Wiley: My favorite part of yearbook is getting to do pages on topics I like. I loved doing the pages for sports. I learned how to multitask.

Senora: My favorite part of the class is seeing the growth of my students and the creativity they have.

Nikki: My favorite part of yearbook is the class itself. I loved working on the FBLA page and learning how to manage things I wouldn't have in another class.

Audrey: My favorite part of yearbook is getting to work with my friends. I learned to get through stress.

Sierra: My favorite part is working with my friends and working on events.

CONSTRUCTING LEADERS

NOVEMBER 4&5, 2018

Building Better Leaders

OASC, or Oregon Association of Student Councils is a place where leadership and ASB students are chosen to attend. These students then show up to the conference, listen to the speakers, and then apply the leadership skills they learned at school, and home life. The speakers tell us their experiences being leaders, how to be a better leader, and how to take care of you own mental health, before you can help others. You can't change the world around you unless you solve what's inside of you first.

The Arts

The arts are an incredibly important part of our programs. They allow students to express themselves and get creative in ways they may not have an opportunity to in other classes.

Senior Olivia Schmidt puts some finishing touches on her piece.

Art is not always about pretty things, its about who we are, what happened to us and how our lives are affected.

National Honor Society

Present leaders of the group put the recognition together, showing the inductees what the oath they took meant. Each candle seen in the pictures show one of the standards a NHS member must show: scholarship, leadership, service, character, and citizenship.

SPRING FLING

This marked the third annual spring fling week with a spirit week, afterschool volleyball and game night. Game night was a blast for students who wanted to show off their UNO skills. Students came in showed what they had at the volleyball game with wins on both teams.

David Wyatt with the face of victory.

Setting up the net wasn't the only setting Audrey Griffiths did that night.

Kross Miller shows off his corn hole skills.

"UNO!" Wait, that's not this game.

Colton Morrill-Keeler hits hard and brings it home for his team.

Being silly and having fun with morning zumba.
